

Your essential assistant.

Meet your new assistant.

Running your practice demands a lot of time and energy. So, when you start feeling the pressure, it's time to hire a personal assistant to help organize your tasks, manage your calendar, facilitate billing, coordinate customer communications, track time spent and lighten your overall load.

Lucky for you, Clio is not only your ideal assistant but also the most cost-effective employee you'll ever have.

Visit clio.com to start your free trial today.

The Problem

Finding the right assistant.

According to a 2014 survey conducted by the American Bar Association, there are a few essentials that need to be considered when choosing a personal assistant.

Must have features

The six most desired features for a practice management solution are:

- Scheduling/reporting
- Contact management
- Conflict checking
- Centralized case/matter management
- Document management
- Time and billing

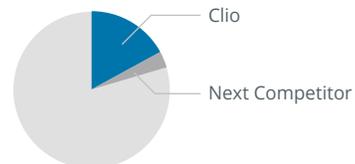

A solid reputation matters — a lot

92% of respondents using cloud services considered the name and reputation of the cloud vendor as either very important (70%) or somewhat important (22%) to their decision.

Clio ranks #1

Clio continues to be the most popular legal-specific cloud service named by respondents with a whopping 16.5% calling it out by name. The next competitor came in at 3.4%.

Source: American Bar Association Cloud Computing Techreport 2014

The Solution

Meet your new assistant: Clio

Client matters come first.

Organize all of your information by matter—contacts, meetings, tasks, expenses, notes, and documents specific to that case.

Your personal document management system.

Keep your legal files all in one place—collaborate with your clients and keep track of changes and edits, automate document templates, and safely share documents—no file cabinets required.

Keep track of time and billing.

Effortlessly keep track of your time so when it's time to generate a bill, it's only one click away. Present your clients with polished, professional looking invoices that will get you paid faster.

See everything that matters—at a glance.

Easily report on productivity, finances, and more with billing, client, and matter-level reporting.

Results? The freedom to get back to doing what you do best, because Clio is taking care of the rest.

Visit clio.com to start your free trial today.